STATUS REPORT FROM CLAIMANTS

My firm represents twelve sexual assault victims of Jeffrey Epstein. From the recent filings of the United States Virgin Islands Attorney General, Denise George ("AG") and the Estate of Jeffrey Epstein ("Estate"), there does not appear to be any dispute at this time and the Estate's Victims Compensation Program ("Program") can and should proceed.

Specifically, the AG's most recent status report filed on April 7, 2020, made clear that the one remaining issue she has with the proposed Program is "the release it has proposed" and "whether the release must be reformed to avoid protecting independently culpable third parties who themselves raped women or children." (See AG Status Report at p. 4, Ex. A).

In response, the Estate filed its own status report on April 10, 2020, that included, as an exhibit, the proposed release that provides in part "This General Release specifically does not include _____ as Releasee or released party under this Agreement, and all parties expressly acknowledge, agree and understand that any and all claims that Releasor has or may have against _____ are expressly reserved." (See Estate Status Report at p. 14, Ex. B).

As such, the AG's single issue with the Program can be addressed by the provision cited by the Estate and the Program can and should proceed without delay.
